UAE remains #1 US Export Destination in the Middle East for the 11th Consecutive Year

February 12, 2020

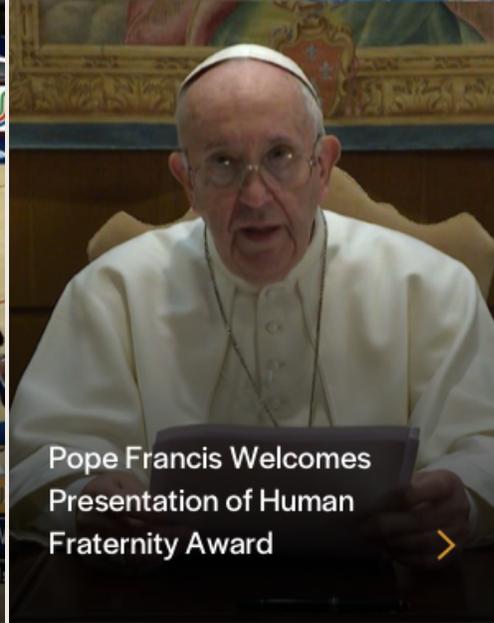

The United Arab Emirates remains the United States' top export destination for the Middle East & North Africa region, according to new trade data released this month by the US Department of Commerce.

- In 2019, the US and the UAE conducted $24.4 billion in total bilateral trade, with US exports to the UAE amounting to just over $20 billion.
- This bilateral trade supports 120,000 American jobs.
- The US enjoyed a $15.7 billion trade surplus with the UAE – the United States' third largest trade surplus globally.

The UAE trades with all 50 states, and UAE investments in the US support the creation of local jobs and economic growth.

This Month In History

In February 2018, the UAE Embassy in Washington, DC and Johns Hopkins Hospital announced the new Sheikh Khalifa Stroke Institute funded by a $50 million gift from the UAE.

The Institute will focus Johns Hopkins' efforts to leverage advances in engineering, artificial intelligence and precision medicine to better diagnose, treat and restore function to stroke patients.

UNITED FOR A BETTER FUTURE
