UAE Embassy in Washington, DC Coronavirus Response

The UAE Embassy in Washington, DC has been working to assist and repatriate UAE nationals and residents in the US ever since the onset of the global outbreak of the novel Coronavirus.

On April 1, HH Sheikh Mohammed bin Rashid Al Maktoum, Vice President, Prime Minister and Ruler of Dubai, chaired a video meeting with HH Sheikh Abdullah bin Zayed Al Nahyan, Minister of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation, and a number of UAE ambassadors including UAE Ambassador to the US Yousef Al Otaiba, to review the country’s diplomatic missions overseas amid the ongoing global efforts to combat the coronavirus outbreak.

UAE Embassy Actions to Repatriate Nationals and Residents

The Embassy worked with government organizations and UAE national airline Etihad Airways to arrange special flights back to the country.

- More than 400 UAE nationals were repatriated to the UAE on March 28 and 29 on special charter flights.
- A special Etihad Airways charter flight also carried US citizens from the UAE to Washington, DC. Through close collaboration with the US Embassy in Abu Dhabi, 25 Americans were returned to the US as part of the operation.
At the direction of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation, the Embassy, Attachés and Consulates were mobilized rapidly to contact, assist and bring home more than 1,000 Emiratis as quickly as possible.” - Shaima Gargash, Deputy Chief of Mission at the UAE Embassy in Washington, DC

The Embassy is also assisting fulltime UAE residents, including Americans and other nationalities. The Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation has introduced a service on its website: “Tawajudi for Residents.” The new service is intended for residents with valid residencies and who are outside the country. Furthermore, the UAE has made the US customs pre-clearance facility at Abu Dhabi airport available to all US airlines that need to schedule special flights.

Diplomats are also working with Emiratis who are receiving medical care at US hospitals and are unable to travel home. The Embassy will continue to remain in contact with patients, their families, and caregivers to ensure they receive the very best medical care and attention.

“We are handling those situations on a case by case basis and will continue to provide all support needed to ensure their health and well-being.” - Shaima Gargash, Deputy Chief of Mission at the UAE Embassy in Washington, DC

There is no greater duty for a U.S. embassy than the protection of U.S. citizens abroad. The Embassy of the United States in UAE is deeply grateful to @etihad for facilitating the repatriation of U.S. citizens who were unable to travel due to the coronavirus outbreak.
Mission UAE has worked with our Emirati partners to facilitate the repatriation of 25 U.S. citizens, including four children, to the United States. Ambassador John Rakolta Jr and Mrs. Terry Rakolta met with the Americans Friday night at @AUH to wish them safe travels home.

Ambassador Rakolta also recognized the generosity of the UAE government, who made available a special @etihad flight to return our citizens to the United States.
